

Engage Success

A Seminar Sponsored by Crossover Ministries & PraisePartners.com

Why You Should Attend

Engage Success today! How much do you need to live your dream? What will it take for you to be truly happy and content in these tough economic times? This seminar is designed to answer these tough questions in these tough times and provide inspirational, motivational, and educational insight on how to take your life back and point it in the direction of SUCCESS!

The Engage Success seminar will be an excellent training tool for any person who is looking to improve their current financial situation. The knowledge gained at the seminar will have a positive effect on your productivity, marketing ability, knowledge of credit and finances, attitude and morale. Raise your bottom line in 2009!

Two of the goals of the program are to expose seminar participants to the unknown truths of success and dispel the much-believed myths of credit and finance. The seminar will feature a speaker in each of four areas, including Management (credit); Money (finances); Marketing (Branding Yourself); and Motivation (Inspiration). These four areas have proven to be the key elements in successful business ventures and the main ingredients for successful individuals worldwide.

In addition to the excellent speaker lineup, you'll also benefit from networking with like-minded people determined to engage success in their lives. Bring plenty of business cards, dress for success and achieve the life you have imagined!

If you are tired of just getting by and looking to improve your financial bottom line in 2009, Engage Success is the seminar for you. Don't hesitate, register on line today at www.crossoverministries.net. For more information call 310-395-5181.

Featured Speakers

Angela Setters-Bessard, CEO
Conquer Credit Management Inc.

Angela Setters-Bessard is the founder and CEO of Conquer Credit Management Inc. From 1990 to 1997 CCMI, a company Setters built from the ground up successfully served over 2,500 clients in managing and repairing their credit. She saved many of her clients from foreclosed homes, helping first time homebuyers live the dream, as well as helping individuals and companies restore their lives while saving them millions of dollars. Trust, proven results, customer service, and communication are the elements that Angela Setters feels has helped her be successful in her career and helping others.

Angela believes that each day contains an opportunity for success, personal growth and self-care; she lives in expectation and not worry. She calls this, "The act of career/life balance; success without suffering". Setters understands this lifestyle quite well working from sun up 'til sun down, taking care of two children, running a successful company full time, as well as supporting a full time ministry, Crossover Ministries where her husband is the Sr. Pastor. She is active in the community and serves in her church as Director of the hospitality committee and children's ministry, Sr. Board member and a Tenor in the church choir.

Angela Waters
President
Axiom Financial Group

The President of Axiom Financial Group is Angela Waters, whose success in sales began at the world's largest pharmaceutical company, where she won numerous awards for her efforts, and has continued unabated in the field of residential real estate. What began as a part-time endeavor to help friends purchase investment properties and single-family homes has burgeoned into a full-fledged second career which promises to eclipse her first.

Angela Waters credits her success in real estate to three things: First is her love of selling, and her unique ability to have fun while doing it. Second is her desire to see every family realize their dream of living in their own home. And last, but not least, is her personal commitment to counteract what she perceives as a very real decline in integrity and customer service in the real estate industry. Taken together, the elements of this threefold mission can best help you and your family to realize your dream of home ownership.

Evan Money, #1 Online Life Coach

Evan Money, lives the American Dream! Born and raised in Southern California, Evan's bride was excited to "marry Money". There was only one challenge - he was broke! He was so broke that he and his bride were the ones putting back groceries while checking out because they didn't have enough cash.

Evan has now come full circle and enjoys full-time staff to do the shopping. He lives his dreams and spends his life teaching others to do the same. Evan is the first to tell you that God is good and He has a sense of humor. Evan and his "Bride" have enjoyed a dynamic marriage for over 11 years. They renew their vows every year in a different state or country. He owns and founded, a multi-million dollar international extreme sports enterprise that he started with no investors or outside capital. Evan became a prime time, sports talk radio personality in Los Angeles with no broadcasting experience or training. Evan has directed and starred in the best selling paintball video of all time and founded his own charity. As a former model and body builder, Evan has spent 17 years studying health and nutrition. Evan has written and published two children's books and his newest book on Amazon.com "Take Action Now - How to live your dreams in less than 3 weeks", is destined to be a Bestseller! Evan is a sought after speaker around the world. His message of "overcoming" and "taking action" leaves audiences with the inspiration to live their dreams.
